Average cost per light per year	$84.92
Average number hours per year	2,975

The above table shows the cost of the city electric plant to the taxpayers of Paducah since it was established in 1894, as compiled by the joint light committee, Alderman Palmer, Hubbard and Bell and Councilmen Williamson, Barnett and Katterjohn.

An investigation is now being made of the transaction with a view to learning what appropriation was drawn on as it is evident that no $10,000 for addition machinery has been entered in the cost as shown above the plant for the two years named.

The figures above will be embodied in the report of the light committee to the legislative boards, together with the proposition of the traction company, and the boards be allowed to take such action as they deem advisable for the good of the city.

Incandescent Lights.

The company proposes to furnish the city all the incandescent lights required by the public buildings, in excess of the incandescent service due the city under its franchise at 7c a kilowatt hour, less a discount of 10c, which would be 6 3-10c, and to furnish all renewals of lamps which is estimated would amount to 1c more discount.

The company also agrees not to increase its commercial lighting rates in the city during the term of the contract for municipal lights above the present rate, which is 10c a kilowatt hour, as long as the price of coal is below $2.00 a ton; any advance in the rates due to the increase in coal prices are to be proportionate to the increase in coal prices.

The Street Car Company's Proposition.

The proposition made the city by the street car company is to furnish the city for one year with a minimum of 200 7 1/2 ampere enclosed, alternating current arc street lights for a 4000 hour service a year for $62.50 a lamp, the city to have the privilege to increase the number of lights used at present, 164, to 200 at once, and to increase the number above 200 as it may desire from time to time. Any additional lamps over the present number, 164, or the 200, is not to be located more than two blocks distant from an existing lamp. A 32-candle power series of incandescent lamps will be furnished at $15 a lamp a year. The incandescent lamps not to be counted in the are lamps specified in the contract.

The city is to have the option of renewing the contract from year to year, for a period of ten years, and similarly for ten years longer at the same price, or at a lower price to be fixed by arbitration, but at no time shall the price exceed the prices below.

For additional lights that may be required from this year, 1906, to 1912, the following are to be the prices:
200 to 249 lamps, yr...$62.50 lamp
250 to 299 lamps, yr... 62.00 "
300 to 349 lamps, yr... 61.50 "
350 to 399 lamps, yr... 61.00 "
400 to 449 lamps, yr... 60.50 "
450 and over... 60.00 "

For the year 1912 and up to 1916 inclusive as many lights as are required will be furnished at $57.50 a year.

A rateable deduction is to be made monthly for such lights as fail to burn in the proportion the total hours the lights are out bear to the total hours called for in the schedule for the month.

To Lease City Plant.

As there is a question of doubt whether the city can legally enter into a contract calling for an expenditure during its term of an amount greater than the annual appropriation for the particular object contracted for, the company makes the proposition in two parts, one for light service and one to lease the city plant, poles and wires so the city can obtain the rate it would on a ten-year contract and at the same time extend a sufficient guarantee of a continuance.

The company offers to lease the city plant for ten years at the nominal rental of $125 a year.

It proposes to maintain the city's poles and wires and at the end of the contract, return them in as good condition as they are now in, unless the city should exercise its option of renewing the contract.

The company would sell for the city, or turn over to it, the power plant, and machinery, exclusive of poles, wires and lamps covered by the lease as soon as it installed its own machinery for street lighting.

At the termination of its lease, the company would turn in to the city, free of cost, such additional wires and lamps as were installed during the first seven years of the lease, and the wires, lamps, etc., installed the last three years will be sold the city at cost, if the city so desires.

The reason for not giving the city the extensions made in the last three years is to protect the company from any unusual extensions which might be ordered during the last three years of the contract. In order that the cost of any extensions made in the last three years may be made as low as possible for the city, the company makes a price of $57.50 a lamp during this period.

AMERICAN SLEUTH Caused the Downfall of Count De Castellaine.

Paris, Feb. 10.—A clever American detective employed by Countess De Castellaine, ostensibly as a tutor for her eldest son, was the means of Count Boni's undoing. The American succeeded in gaining entrance to the count's "Bachelor apartments" and found alleged incriminating letters from a wealthy woman.

Scores of People of Burned Village Are Homeless.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 10.—The people of Littleton, which was destroyed by fire yesterday, are suffering frightfully today, as the weather is 10 degrees colder this morning and it found scores of people hovered over the embers of their homes. A report has reached here that a number of deaths will probably result from the exhaustion.

NICK IS SICK

CONGRESSMAN IS ILL BUT NOT SERIOUSLY SO.

No Changes Are Anticipated in the Wedding Arrangements.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, whose marriage to Miss Alice Roosevelt is to take place one week from today, is ill at the home of his mother in this city. Mrs. Longworth stated, however, that the illness is not serious, that there is no reason for concern, and that she expected her son would be well enough to come downstairs by Sunday.

Mr. Longworth has been suffering with a cold for several days, and yesterday afternoon the cold had become aggravated somewhat, and there was some fever.

Mr. Longworth was also suffering from the swelling of a tonsil. He has remained in bed since that time. Yesterday the fever disappeared and Mr. Longworth was better.

Congressman Longworth is still sick today, but his condition is improved. He takes his illness philosophically and unless complications ensue there will be no change in the arrangements for his wedding to Miss Alice Roosevelt. The doctor said today that Mr. Longworth would probably be out Monday.

Peasants Become Pugnacious.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—Serious disturbances are occurring in the Chernogoff district. Peasants have assumed a menacing attitude, and threaten to besiege towns in the district and destroy buildings.

Fought a Draw.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10.—After twenty rounds of fast fighting Referee Eytton declared the Herman-Herrera contest a draw. It was a hard, carefully fought bout from start to finish, and the Chicago lad was lucky to get away with an even break. A majority of the rounds were even. In the fourteenth and fifteenth Herman had the Mexican worried several times.

DEPUTY U.S. MARSHAL WADE BROWN BEGINS

His Active Duties Monday---Has Several Things in Sight.

Has Several Troublesome Customers to Deal With---Last Day of Elevator.

WILL STOP TODAY UNTIL JULY

Deputy U. S. Marshal Wade Brown who received his appointment to that office a few days ago, will begin active work Monday and intends to make business hum for awhile.

"I have been ill this week and unable to do any active outside work," Deputy Marshal Brown explained this morning. "I have several summons to serve in other counties and several warrants to serve, but will not be able to get to the latter until I have finished with the former. I will start out Monday morning and go into Crittenden county with several subpoenas to serve in civil actions and will then proceed to Evansville on business. On my return I shall go into Graves county after a few bootleggers against whom I have warrants."

"I have done little outdoor work since I have been here, but not enough to count for anything. I have two troublesome customers to deal with and have outlined plans for action. These men cross into other states when they hear an officer is coming after them, making it hard to catch them. I have devised means to effect their arrest and next week expect to begin making business hum."

Mr. Brown resides in Paducah and will arrange to keep as regular office hours as possible. His duties are such, however, that he will be on the jump much of the time. Major George W. Saunders, the former deputy marshal, resides in Mayfield and was in Paducah only when his duties called him here. Mr. Brown being a resident here will be in Paducah more than his predecessor.

Last Day of the Elevator.

Official notice of the reduction in the local force of government building employees by laying off Hiram B. Davis, in charge of the elevator, and Robert W. Williams, the janitor has been received, effective today. They both retire from service tonight, and the elevator will of course be closed tonight until the government orders it started again. The reduction is made because of a deficit in the government building appropriation. It used to be that when an appropriation ran short the money could be spent from some other, until it could be paid back out of the next year's appropriation. A new law is now in effect, however, making it a felony to spend over the amount appropriated by the government. The present lay-off of government employees, numbering about eighty all over the country, is at least until July, when the new fiscal year begins. It is possible that they will be ordered on duty again after that time.

Carries Only Part of Way on Wheel.

It has been reported that one of our ingenious rural carriers is carrying his route on a bicycle instead of in the regulation mail wagon, but it proves to be an error, although it would be perfectly legal and satisfactory to the government if he did. The rural carrier is seen frequently leaving the local postoffice with his pouch, riding a bicycle on pretty days, but it develops he lives in Arcadia, and rides there where his route begins, and then starts out in his wagon. It is likely that on pretty days some of the rural carriers would use bicycles if the county roads all along their route would enable them to travel.

Glasgow, Feb. 10.—A dispatch to the Herald from St. Petersburg says that mutiny has broken out among the crew of the vessels of the Russian Baltic fleet and a number of officers are under arrest.

THE WORTEN TAX CASE WAS DECIDED IN FAVOR OF CITY

Circuit Judge William Reed this morning filed his opinion in the case of J. M. Worten against the city of Paducah. The suit was brought to prevent the collection of taxes on the plaintiff's property for the year 1903 because of an alleged technicality, and the opinion of the court dismisses the petition.

Attorney Worten alleged that the city under the charter has no right to assess property oftener than every four years; that the city provided no ordinance for the special purpose of an annual assessment and moreover the board of supervisors sat for 43 days during that year when by law the board can sit no longer than four weeks once every year, and six days annually the next three years.

Judge Reed in his opinion stated that the charter and constitution conflicted in one way and that as far as the legal part of the supervisors sitting more than six days three years out of four, the petition was correct. The city had passed no ordinance providing for the assessment this year even before or after an amendment was passed by the legislature giving this power.

Judge Reed cites several sections of the constitution and statutes and in conclusion adjudges that the petitioner has not sufficient claims to be exempted from taxation for this year, 1903.

This case was an important one, as had it been won by the plaintiff and been sustained in the appellate court, it would have meant that every person who had paid city taxes for that year, could sue the city and recover whatever had been paid.

Attorney Worten has ordered a record of the suit and will file an appeal in time for the April term of court of appeals. He says he thinks he can have the case advanced on the docket and a decision handed down at an early date.

If Judge Reed's decision that this feature of the charter is unconstitutional is upheld by the court of appeals, the other second class cities of the state are probably in a predicament, as they have been making all assessments under the provisions of the charter. Paducah, however, has been making its assessments every year, and would not be affected.

CALEB POWERS CASE CAUSED A TRAGEDY

Calum Powell, a Republican,
Killed by James Wright.

Men of Monroe County Used Knives and Guns as a Result of a Quarrel.

THE DEAD MAN WAS A BULLY.

Glasgow, Ky., Feb. 10.—As the result of a quarrel over the case of Caleb Powers, Calum Powell, a republican, was shot and killed by Jas. Wright, also a republican. The third party to the quarrel, Will Simmons, a democrat, is unhurt. The shooting occurred near Boles Monroe county, not far from the Tennessee line. Thursday night Powell, Will Simmons and James Wright were discussing the murder of William Geobel, and Powell declared that whoever killed him did the proper thing. Simmons denounced the deed. Finally Powell, who was noted as something of a bully, is said to have attacked Simmons with a knife. Simmons ran, pursued by Powell, but suddenly turned and drawing a forty-five caliber revolver, sent a bullet through Powell's left arm.

Simmons kept on running and Powell gave up the chase and turned on Wright. Wright ran to his home nearby and getting his shotgun came out and fired once, the charge tearing a great hole in Powell's side and hip. The left leg was amputated a few hours afterward, but Powell died last night. Wright has not been arrested.

HICKMAN TO LEASE OUT ITS LIGHT AND WATER PLANT TODAY

Hickman, Ky., is one of those cities that own their water and light plants. The following handbills have been distributed in Paducah:

WATER AND LIGHT PLANT FOR RENT.

On Saturday, Feb. 10th, at 3 p. m., at the door of the city hall in Hickman, Ky., I will offer for lease to the highest bidder the entire water and electric light plant of the city of Hickman. Terms made known at time of offer.

Right to reject any and all bids is reserved. By order of the city council (Signed.) H. C. HELM, Clerk.

A telephone message from Hickman stated that the plants would be leased this afternoon at 3 o'clock, probably to a local company, although there are a number of other bidders there.

to a Small Fire.

The Nos. 2 and 4 fire companies were called to the residence of Mr. Miller, in Littleville, last night shortly after 6 o'clock. A fire had started a small fire in the roof but no damage was done. This is one of the very few calls the companies have ever had in Littleville.

How to Cure Rheumatism

I searched the whole earth for a specific for Rheumatism—something that I or any physician could feel safe in prescribing—something that we could count on not only occasionally, but with reasonable certainty. For the ravages of Rheumatism are everywhere and genuine relief is rare. After twenty years of search and experiment, I learned of the German chemical I now employ. And I knew then that my search and my efforts were well rewarded. For this chemical, in combination with others, gave me the basis of a remedy which in the cure of Rheumatism is practically certain. In many, many tests and difficult cases this prescription has with regularity justified the confidence I had in it. Mild cases are sometimes reached by a single package—for sale by 40,000 druggists.

I don't mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Tablets can turn bony joints into flesh again and never fail—that is impossible. But they will with reasonable certainty drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of the pain and swelling—the end of the suffering—the end of Rheumatism.

Any Rheumatic sufferer who writes may receive my little book on Rheumatism, including professional advice as to diet, etc., free. With the book I will also send, without charge, my "Health Token," an intended passport to good health. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 6171, Racine, Wis.

THE WEEK AT THE KENTUCKY.
Monday Night—The Maid and the Mummy.
Remainder of the week, Frank Dudley Stock Company.

The Maid and the Mummy.
Every girl in the chorus of "The Maid and the Mummy" has ambitions to become a prima donna. The girls are all splendid singers and dancers, and a large majority of them are traveling merely to gain the experience that only the actual stage can give. A special dancing teacher accompanies the company and between singing and dancing rehearsals there is little time left for idling. "The Maid and the Mummy" will appear for one night only at The Kentucky on Monday night.

Howe's Moving Pictures.
The Lyman H. Howe picture show will end its engagement of two nights and matinee, tonight at The Kentucky.

The company this season is far better equipped with new and novel pictures than ever before. The one picture alone, that of "The Tragedy of Port Arthur," is said to be the most realistic and historic picture ever thrown on canvas.
An exchange in speaking of the company has the following to say: "The educational value of such an elaborate collection is hardly to be overestimated. The wonderful power of Lyman H. Howe's Lifeorama to bring directly before one the most distant parts of earth, sea and even sky, was never better exemplified. It seemed incredible that Boston with its commercial and political bustle

GOEBEL WITNESS
Tells How He Was Shot, After Long Silence.
San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 10.—A dispatch to the Examiner from Los Angeles, says that Chas. E. Ehler, who was shot just above the heart in Bakersfield, on December 7 last, has arrived there and that he has broken his long silence regarding the shooting and made the following statement:
"Until now I have refused to say who shot me. It has been a much mooted question whether it was done by some one interested in the Goebel murder case at Frankfort, Ky., in which I am credited with having been an important witness, or State Senator E. J. Emmons, of Bakersfield."

He then goes on to declare that Emmons shot him for an alleged insult to Mrs. Emmons. Emmons is now serving a term in the state penitentiary, having been convicted of boodling at the last session of the state legislature.

PRESIDENT GOSNELL
Is Eligible to Be Head of the K. I. T. League.

The question regarding the eligibility of President Secretary C. C. Gosnell, of Vincennes, to hold that office in the Kitty League, was raised by a local paper which was under the impression that the old constitution was not changed. Had this condition existed, then he would not have been eligible, but the clause was eliminated pertaining to the president not holding stock in any team or being financially interested in the league, and another substituted reading as follows:
"The president shall be a resident of one of the cities represented by membership in the circuit of said league, etc."

This is the only requirement the president has to meet, and Mr. Gosnell is fully eligible.

BIG EXHIBIT AND SALE OF $30,000 WORTH OF Rare Oriental Rugs

SALE BEGINS MONDAY, ENDING POSITIVELY WEDNESDAY EVENING

WE announce to the public that Mr. Meledonian, expert in rare rugs, will begin his exhibition and sale Monday, February 12, at our store, closing Wednesday February 14. All lovers of Oriental Rugs should be attracted by this showing of absolutely hand made guaranteed rugs—products of the Far East—and make good this opportunity afforded them, to talk direct to a man who has made this interesting subject a life study. Mr. Meledonian has been continuously associated with the rug industry from childhood and can answer any inquiry concerning the various weaves from the many rug producing villages throughout the Oriental countries, and can acquaint you with the conditions under which a rug has been woven, how it reflects the personal history of the patient maker; how his hopes and fears are woven into its curious, hap-hazard designs and colors. Even to those who value them more as articles of merchandise than objects of art, which they are, their beauty is fascinating. If you are interested, either as a possible purchaser or for the mere seeing of this unusual gathering, you are cordially welcome. Your special attention is called to an 18x12 Kermienska rug, which is valued at $5,000. It is 750 years old and its equal as a work of art has never been shown in the United States. Rug section, third floor.

Luncheon to Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. Frank O. Watts entertained a small party of ladies at luncheon Friday in honor of Mrs. Robert Phillips, of Paducah, Ky., who arrived yesterday to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Hamilton Parks, and who is always the recipient of many pretty social courtesies during her visits here. All the appointments were beautiful and the table was handsomely set in silver and crystal. A bouquet of pink carnations was the central ornament, and the colonial candlesticks had pink and pierced silver shades, the same rosy hue being further emphasized in the bonbons and the Valentine place cards. —Nashville Banner.

Beautiful Valentine Luncheon.

Mrs. George C. Wallace's luncheon on Wednesday in honor of her niece, Miss Belle Cave, was a charming compliment to one of the season's most attractive debutantes.

It was a Valentine luncheon and Don Cupid was master of all he surveyed. The table was a beautiful effect in pink. The center-piece was a gilded basket filled with pink carnations and plumosa. From the chandelier above, which was a mass of pink rosebuds, Cupid with his gilded bow taking aim, was suspended by pink ribbons. Candelabra with pink-shaded candles lent a pretty glow to the scene. The place-cards were dainty water color sketches of Cupid "guarding" a heart, and each bore in clever original verse Cupid's message, "marked personal" to each maiden. The menu was elaborate and delightful. The ices were Cupids with gilded bows and arrows, and the individual cakes were iced in pink with white rosebuds.

The fourteen girl-guests were: Misses Belle Cave, Leone Kessler, of Pontiac, Mich.; Emily Upton, of New Orleans; Blanche Hills, Retta Hatfield, Robbie Loving, Martha Davis, Kathleen Whitefield, Louise Cox, Frances Terrell, Nell Holland, Elizabeth Sinnott, Rella Coleman, Faith Langstaff.

Series of Pretty Parties.

Mrs. Edwin A. Rivers, of South Sixth street, was the hostess of a delightful series of card parties on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. The house was attractively decorated and a color-scheme of black and white was carried out in the game details. The tables were white etchings on black ground. The tables were arranged in the double parlors and a pretty course-luncheon was served there at the conclusion of the game. After the luncheon an informal reception was held in the dining room, where coffee, tea, mints and ices were served. Red and white were the color-effects of this room. There were eight tables of guests each afternoon.

On Wednesday the first prize was won by Mrs. Lawrence S. Gleaves, and the lone-hand prize by Mrs. Henry Hughes. The game prize and the lone-hand prize for Thursday were captured by Mrs. Charles McQuot and Mrs. James Campbell, Jr.

Chapter Meeting.

Paducah chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Bertie F. Campbell, on Broadway. It was the regular February meeting and several matters of important business were before the chapter for consideration. A state paper on education in the south was read and discussed. The chapters of the state will doubtless take some concerted action on this. Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the business session.

Mrs. Eli G. Boone was hostess to the Magazine club on Thursday afternoon at her home on South Sixth street. The opening quotations were from Mrs. Humphrey Ward. Missionary Tea.

The February Missionary Tea of Grace Episcopal church was held Friday afternoon at the parish house and was an especially pleasant and interesting occasion. "The Beginning of the Church in America" was the subject for the meeting. Miss Alice Compton told of "The First Service," Mrs. O. J. Ford of "The First Baptism" and "The First Marriage," Miss Jessie Nash of "The First President" and Miss Emily Morrow of "The First Bishop."

Mrs. Stuart, of Virginia, who is visiting her son, Dr. D. T. Stuart, here and has spent much of her life in China as a missionary of the Presbyterian church, was the guest of honor of the afternoon and gave some interesting personal experiences of the work there. Mrs. Stuart was in China during the Boxers' riots, and made the perils endured very vivid to her listeners.

Mrs. William Brainerd was hostess of the tea, and tea and cakes were served during the afternoon.

Weddings.

A pretty home wedding was that of Miss Lena Harris and Mr. Eugene Kahn, which was quietly solemnized on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harris, on North Fifth street.

The home was decorated with palms, ferns, white carnations and smilax. The bride entered with her father, and the groom with his sisters, Mrs. Ben Jacob, of Minneapolis, and Miss Madeline Kahn, of Dallas, Texas, and Mr. Julius Harris. The wedding march from Lohengrin, was played by Miss Rubie Michael. Rabbi Lovich of Temple Israel said the ceremony. The bride wore a tailored gown of white broadcloth and carried bride roses. Mrs. Jacobs was gowned in grey crepe de chine and Miss Kahn in a princess costume of pale blue satin. Marvelleux. Only a few witnessed the ceremony, but a number of guests were present at the reception that followed from 4 to 6 o'clock. Cakes, ices and wines were served and it was a very delightful occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Kahn left at 6 p. m. on a southern bridal trip. The bride's going-away gown was blue broadcloth and hat to match.

Miss Linnie Craig and Mr. Cecil Gillum were married on Monday evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Joe Voght on Jones street. They were attended by Miss Estelle Kelly and Mr. Joseph Tucker. Rev. E. H. Cunningham performed the ceremony. The bride was gowned in white and the bridesmaid in white over pink. A reception followed the ceremony, and an elaborate supper was served. They will live here on the South Side.

The first reading of the wedding bans of Miss Laura Reitz and Mr. Clarence Graves, of this city, and Miss Blanche Shelbourne of Wickliffe and Mr. Frank Hill, of Paducah, were made Sunday at St. Francis de Sales Catholic church.

They are all well known and popular young people in this city. The marriages will be solemnized some time before Lent. The first couple will have a church wedding, but Miss Shelbourne and Mr. Hill will be married at Father Jansen's residence.

Catholic church. Rev. Father H. W. Jansen will perform the ceremony. The wedding was announced several weeks ago. Miss Butze's home is Golconda, but she lived in Paducah of recent years. Both are popular young people.

Miss Ethel Brooks and Miss Susie Thompson have returned from Wichita, Kan., where they visited Miss Louise McNamara. Miss McNamara, who is very popular in Paducah society, accompanied them home.

Miss Laura Jobe, of Jackson, Tenn., was the guest of Mrs. S. H. Winstead this week en route to Cincinnati for a visit. Miss Jobe has been a visitor in Paducah on several occasions and has made many friends here.

Miss Letha Puryear, who has been the pleasant guest of Mrs. C. M. Legg for the past two weeks, will return to her home in Paducah Saturday. She is one of the most popular visitors to Mayfield and her visits are always enjoyed. It is regretted that her visit was curtailed on account of an injury sustained at the skating rink a few afternoons ago. —Mayfield Messenger.

Mr. Irvin S. Cobb has featured his humorous articles appearing in the evening edition of the New York World very cleverly as "New York Thro' Funny Glasses" and they are "taking well." The World in its morning edition has a cartoon of a man laughing immoderately at "Cobb's 'New York Thro' Funny Glasses'" and the line running across the top of the front page of Tuesday's evening edition calls attention to the "Several Good Laughs in I. S. Cobb's 'New York Thro' Funny Glasses' on Page 12," which shows that the paper is appreciative of a "good thing." Mr. Cobb's keen sense of humor cannot resist a little fun at his own expense and he refers to his articles as "alleged humor." His friends here are most interested in his achievements.

Daily Thought.
 Every man is entitled to be valued by his best moments.—Emerson.

COL. WATTERSON ON JOURNALISM.

Editor Henry Watterson is one of those editors who do a great deal of their work by proxy. He travels about, has a pleasant time, and incidentally writes some mighty interesting, polished and delightful letters. His last, published in yesterday's Courier-Journal, is on how to run a newspaper, and Col. Watterson's ideas, in the main, seem quite good, especially considering the changes that have been wrought in the Fourth Estate since Mr. Watterson reached the pinnacle of fame in his profession. He may regard the modern journal through the spectacles of an "old timer," but he does not appear to miss many points, and his idea in general is that there is much that might be improved in both American and English newspapers.

He declares in part:
 "To print nothing which a prudent paterfamilias would hide from his household, to say nothing in print of a man you would not say to his face, were a limitation at once in the interest of the newspaper and its readers. The style has much to do with it, and the tone even more than the style. There are newspapers that seem always in a passion, others that mostly affect levity, mistakes it for wit. A cross between the two would hit the center nearest. In its most serious moments the newspaper should not wear a scowl. It should equally avoid scolding and preaching. To treat the public heartily, all men fairly, to be just even in its censure, to lean to the side of charity never to sacrifice truth to malice, to scorn bullying, whilst laughing bullies to scorn, flashing upon a fraud and lighting up a rascal, like a policeman's lantern, these are some of the precepts which upright journalism and the aspiring journalist might with profit set themselves.

"The yellow journal cannot, in my opinion, last. In time people will become familiar and grow tired of its tricks and its manners. Sauces of dog-meat, though never so highly seasoned, will after a while sicken all but the coarsest stomachs—particularly when sausages are known to be made of dog-meat. The general public will be educated to understand the difference between sensational and fake matter and legitimate and reliable news. Sprawling headlines will no longer suffice to carry fabrications and exaggerations, and will cease to provoke curiosity, and therefore to make talk and attract attention."

DISCUSSING THE CAUCUS.
 The action of Senator Patterson of Colorado, in repudiating a democratic caucus, has provoked a discussion of the caucus in general, and many of the journals are expressing the propriety of any sort of a proceeding which compels a man to vote for something that is contrary to his convictions. They think, with Mr. Patterson, that a caucus that makes such an attempt is contrary to the spirit and intent of the United States constitution, and should be abolished.

The Globe-Democrat remarks apropos Senator Patterson's action:
 "This shows the folly of trying to inject partisan politics into the foreign policy of the country. Domestic political divisions should stop at the country's frontier. This has been the view of most of the great statesmen from the beginning. Decatur's motto ought to be the rule of conduct for everybody in contingencies like these. 'Our country.' In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong." On this issue a large majority of the people of the United States, it is safe to say, think the administration is right. The fact that the democratic leaders held their caucus on this issue shows that they believed many democrats would take this view. It is possible that the caucus may defeat the treaty, though this is improbable. If the treaty fails, however, the result which it aims at can be accomplished by a joint resolution. Texas was annexed by a joint resolution, and this ought to be good enough to accomplish what we seek in Santo Domingo."

The suggestion that a new law is needed regarding hazing in the United States naval and military academies seems to be timely. For quite awhile this hazing, whatever it was, and notwithstanding its results, was allowed to flourish unmolested. It was a sort of code of honor among the cadets, and they did a great deal of it under the impression not only that it was harmless, but also that it was tacitly approved. In other words, many of them no doubt acted in good faith, only to find now that in response to public clamor and indignation, they must be tried and forced to pay a penalty that may be just, but which certainly they had no reason to expect. It seems to be the general opinion that while the rules are against hazing, and the cadets in question violated the rules, the sentences are a little too severe in some cases, owing to the belief that the acts known as hazing had always been tolerated. Just punishment should be meted out to the hazers, and every other cadet be given to understand that henceforth hazing in any form means instant and irrevocable dismissal.

We fail to perceive why any controversy should arise over the eligibility of a member of one of the subordinate boards who is merely an appointee of the mayor, because he moved into a suburban home, when the mayor of Paducah has for several years occupied possibly the greater portion of the year, a house much further out than that of the other officer. Provided that an official admits he resides outside the city limits, he may plainly be ineligible; but where he claims such residence is only temporary, as the mayor does every year when he goes to the country, and declares that his home is inside the city at some certain place, who is there to dispute it? And if the member in question can be ousted from office on this account, how long would it take to put the mayor out on the same grounds? A number of men who have for several years been living in Frankfort, Ky., say that their home is in Paducah, and come here to vote every year. They really don't live here, but they say it is their home, and no one can dispute it.

It was not the typesetter this time, but the stenographer. Papers all over the United States quoted Former Chief Engineer Wallace, of the Panama canal, as saying that Judge Taft "all but 'crushed' him." It develops, after all the democratic papers have had ample time in which to score Judge Taft, that Mr. Wallace said "all but 'crushed' him," which makes it entirely different. Mr. Wallace, unsolicited, issued a statement declaring that the stenographer had made the mistake, but few of the papers gave the correction as much prominence as they did the first report.

Judge Sanders Started in by Fining Ben Boyd.

Boyd Seemed to Ignore Advice, and His Balls Cost One Man His License.

POLICE COURT CASES TODAY.

Police Judge D. J. Sanders this morning in a lengthy verbal opinion, upheld the stand and action taken by the board of aldermen in its determination to break up and rid the city of all objectionable saloons, dance halls and public places not having a tendency to uplift the morals of the community.

The opinion was rendered in the case of the commonwealth against Ben-Boyd, colored, charged with running a disorderly dance on North Tenth street in the rear of a saloon run by Henry Gailman, the grocer. Boyd was fined $25 and costs and took an appeal. The case had been hanging fire in police court for nearly two weeks pending the acquisition of sufficient testimony to show the true situation, and it was not until this morning that the evidence was concluded.

"Take these public dances where persons of the lower stations in life attend, and you have one of the most disorderly houses imaginable, at least this is the result of my observation," Judge Sanders declared. "In some places these amusements have resulted in tragedies, and if the police do not break them up in a short time, they break up themselves, because cutting and shooting generally become features in addition to the legitimate object, and dancing beer, drinking, etc., and they can not run long under these conditions."

"Take this case in particular and you will see, from what the evidence shows, a very deplorable state, and right in the heart of a prominent residential section of the city. Boyd is charged with running a disorderly house and the question to decide is whether or not he is guilty. The evidence shows that his dance is attended by many negroes and of all classes, further that the dance hall is located in the rear of a saloon where women go and drink at liberty. The evidence shows these dances to keep going until early morning and when they break the chatter of the returning revelers can be heard for five blocks. Several prominent young lady residents testified that they had been disturbed and this in itself constituted an offense—that of a disorderly house."

"Boyd runs a restaurant in the saloon or grocery and was not satisfied with this, he must go ahead and give dances. When warranted he continued. Now had he been a man desiring to do right, he would have discontinued the dances until the matter was settled in court."

"No, he did not do this, but continued to run his dance hall, and when the police notified him that he would be warranted told them to go ahead and get the warrant, that he would not stop until they did. This showed an antagonistic attitude, and was anything but commendable. It showed that Boyd did not really desire to assist in upholding the law, as he promised the chief of police to do when he sought advice from the police before starting his dances. He has gone and done exactly what the chief told him to avoid, and you see the result—the warrant."

"Another result of his dances was the refusal of the board of aldermen to grant the saloon adjacent to the dance hall a license and all because of this dance business. It shows that the people want a moral town and are intent on having one at all hazards. The fact that so much complaint was made, and the antagonistic attitude assumed by Boyd, is sufficient to find him guilty of running a disorderly house and I will fine him $25 and costs."

Boyd's attorneys immediately took an appeal and will carry the case to the circuit court.

Other cases in police court were: Will Young, white, breach of ordinance, dismissed; H. L. Drewery, white, petty larceny, dismissed; Tom Jones, colored, petty larceny, dismissed; Guy Bennett, white, breach of the peace, $10 and costs; Rufus Ross, colored, breach of the peace, $20 and costs; Frank Mason, colored, obtaining money by false pretenses, held to answer.

MUCH AMUSEMENT
OVER CONTROVERSY

If Mr. Fowler is Ineligible, So is Mayor D. A. Yeiser.

Mr. Fowler Not Alarmed and Would Be Willing to Quit the Job Voluntarily.

SOME CITY NOTES OF INTEREST

Secretary of the Board of Public Works Saunders A. Fowler is very much amused at the comments on his eligibility, and his friends especially see humor in the position taken by Mayor Yeiser when he states, as a paper has him saying, that he believes Mr. Fowler is ineligible to hold his position on the board because of his residence outside the city limits.

Mr. Fowler and his friends claim that Mr. Fowler is eligible to hold the position because he claims his residence at 726 Broadway, the home of his mother. They say the mayor lives outside the city limits for the greater part of the year, and has done so for some time, and if Mr. Fowler is ineligible so is his honor. The mayor claims his residence on Fourth street, and that his home in the country is merely his summer home. But so does Mr. Fowler make the same claim.

"I am not anxious, nor very solicitous about my position on the board," said Mr. Fowler today. "I contend, however, that I am eligible if the mayor is, and the other officials who have two places of residence are. I take the position I do in the matter to have it settled and a precedent established."

"It is amusing to see my action construed as 'overbearing,' as one of the papers expresses it. The position is certainly not one any one who has had any experience with would regret to lose. I don't want to cause any friction, nor do anything but what is right, and may resign the position, as I am merely serving on the board now at the earnest solicitation of my associates on the board, and some of my other friends, and it is only at their requests that I intend to serve for the balance of my term, which is April 1st."

Were the Ordinances Passed?

City Clerk Henry Bailey has referred the matter of investigating the passage of ordinances creating the offices of license inspector, city weigher, wharfmaster, and sewer inspector, when the city went into a city of the second class, to Auditor Kirkland, who has charge of the ordinances.

The revised ordinances show that an ordinance recreating the office of license inspector and market master was passed, approved on December 3 and signed by the mayor on the 19th, 1902. As to the other ordinances, the auditor has not investigated.

The request for this investigation was made in the city council by Councilman Hill at the instance of other members who wanted the information. Auditor Kirkland will look up the remaining ordinances and be prepared for a report at the next board meeting.

Some of the councilmen had been unable to find any ordinance recreating the offices mentioned except in the case of the license inspector.

Better Chicago Service.

F. W. Harlow, of the passenger department of the Illinois Central railroad, who was in the city one day this week for a conference with Mr. J. T. Donovan, general agent of the company here, with reference to a better passenger service between Chicago and Paducah, has taken the latter up with the view of seeing if something cannot be done soon to give us a better connection for Chicago.

Nothing has been heard from him since he was in the city but the local railroad officials think something will be done in a few weeks. They have so recommended, for they appreciate just what it means to the city and their patrons. The Illinois Central has always treated its Paducah patrons with marked consideration and it probably only requires the deplorable service to Chicago brought to the attention of the proper authorities to have it improved.

Want Downtown Ticket Office.

The railroad committee of the board of aldermen will have a conference in a few days with Superintendent A. H. Egan, of the Illinois Central railroad company, to take up the proposition of having the passenger trains stop at the Broadway crossing, and hope to be able to induce the railroad company to do it. It would be a great accommodation to the patrons of the road, for many people who live on the north side of the city have to ride out to the union station and then come all the way across the city again, and if they could get off at Broadway they would save a good deal of time, and in many instances street car or cab fare.

The Commercial club had this matter up at one time with the railroad company but nothing was ever accomplished. The Commercial club was desirous of having the two railroads establish a joint ticket and freight office down town.

"We are entitled to a down-town ticket and freight office," said a prominent wholesale merchant today "and believe the matter could be arranged if it is brought before the railroads in the right way. It is something the council boards and the Commercial club could take up and bring to a successful conclusion, and I believe, it should be done at once."

RIVER NEWS

The bids for the construction of the steel gates and maneuvering appliances for Lock No. 21, near Burnside, Ky., on the Upper Cumberland river, were opened by Maj. H. C. Newcomer at his office at the custom house yesterday. The lowest bidder was the Port Huron Shipbuilding company of Port Huron, Mich. Their bid was $17,900 and there were four other bidders with proposals ranging as high as $28,000. Lieut. William S. Caples, who is attached to Maj. Newcomer's office at Chattanooga, is here after looking over some of the work on the Cumberland.—Nashville Banner.

The gauge registered 14.8 feet today, a fall of 1.7 since yesterday.

The Dick Fowler had a very good trip for Cairo today. Among the freight shipments were a car of plows and a car of wire for fences.

The John S. Hopkins was the Evansville packet today.

The Chattanooga is expected from Chattanooga some time today or tonight.

The Peters Lee is due some time tonight from Cincinnati for Memphis.

The Stacker Lee did not get away from Memphis until last night. She is due here for Cincinnati Sunday afternoon.

The Kentucky will leave at 6 o'clock tonight for the Tennessee.

It is said that there will be several new boats built in the spring for trades on the Ohio river. They will all be sternwheelers.

Capt. George Conant, of Evansville, has 300 pictures of boats, among which are the Duke of Orleans, Robert E. Lee, Natchez and other famous boats of ante-bellum days.

The license of Thomas Boland of the steamer Klein has been suspended for two weeks by Steamboat Inspectors Atkinson and Williams, at Pittsburgh. This action was taken as the result of an investigation of the collision between the Klein and the steamer Bertha, near Bellevernon on November 4. Boland testified he signaled the Bertha with the boat whistle that he would pass her on the starboard side, and getting no answer from the other craft he proceeded. The captain and the crew of the Bertha testified they heard no signal from the Klein and the inspectors held Boland exceeded his rights in the matter and violated pilots' rules No. 1 and 7.

For Beckham County.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 10.—Beckham county is provided for in a bill introduced by Charles C. Beard, of Ohio county. The county is to be made up of portions of Grayson, Ohio, Butler and Breckenridge counties, with Fordville as the county seat. The proposed new county will be 410 miles by actual survey. It will have 14,000 inhabitants and with no county seat within ten miles. Fordville, now in Ohio county, has 900 inhabitants and the largest white population in the county. It is a progressive little town with four churches, two tobacco factories, a high school, two coal mines and two railroads.

If the new county is created, Mr. Beard believes a large section of undeveloped country will be given a great impetus. The new county takes two Republican precincts from Breckenridge county and reduces the district majority in Ohio county by cutting off the section where most of the Republicans live.

Considerable opposition has developed in certain sections of the counties, but Mr. Beard believes his bill will have a good chance to get through.

To Limit Racing.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 10.—The race-track fight in Kentucky is bobbing up in the legislature. Representative Russell introduced a bill to limit racing to forty days in any calendar year on any race course in the state. It affixes penalties of a fine of from $500 to $1,000 daily for violation of the provisions of the bill.

A woman once wrote us that she was not going to buy Scott's Emulsion any more because it cost too much. Said she could get some other emulsion for less money. Penny wise and pound foolish. Scott's Emulsion costs more because it is worth more—costs more to make. We could make Scott's Emulsion cost less by using less oil. Could take less care in making it, too. If we did, however, Scott's Emulsion wouldn't be the standard preparation of cod liver oil as it is to-day.

Real Estate News.

(By E. W. Whittemore.)

The real estate conditions in Paducah are satisfactory except in one particular,—the number of vacant houses. They do not, however, indicate that the city is not growing steadily, or that it is even stagnant. Rents here have been as high, previous to 1905, as anywhere in the country with the result that investors were tempted to, and have, built too many houses. It has been a good thing for renters, however, in that it has reduced rents.

A feature of the market, too, is the number of people who have built their own houses on their own lots. The demand for houses has shown an indication of a marked increase lately. This year, too, there will be more houses built to be occupied by the owners than last year, a good many of the best of them will be erected in the Harahan addition, the new addition in the west end, and $10,000 is being spent in beautifying it.

The annual meeting of the members of the Commercial club will be held at the club headquarters Tuesday night to elect directors for the ensuing year. It is probable that most of the members of the present directory will be re-elected but there are a few who have expressed a desire to retire and new members will be elected to their places.

Bradstreet's Weekly Report.

New York, Feb. 10.—Reports as to spring trading are of very favorable character and more seasonable weather has stimulated some lines of retail trade. Shipments of finished products of manufacture are of enormous volume and mills are still pushed to fill orders previously booked. Reports as to winter wheat are satisfactory as a whole. Against these favorable features are to be cited disquieting influences of predictions and preparations for a general coal strike, possibly involving 500,000 men. Buyers are disposed to buy conservatively for a fall is reported in lines affected by weather, notably men's woollens and shoes. Money is easy. The price movements of leather staples are generally toward ease and some recessions, as for instance in pig iron, develop new business. Detailed telegrams to Bradstreet report a generally active appearance to all lines of spring trading.

Wheat, including flour exports for the United States and Canada for the week, were 3,242,000 bushels against 988,000 this week last year; July 1 to date 86,969,000 against 41,050,000 last year.

Corn exports for the week were 3,661,000 bushels against 2,448,000 year ago; July 1 to date, 72,989,000 against 35,592,000 in 1905.

Weekly Bank Clearings.

New York, Feb. 10.—Total bank clearings compiled by Bradstreet for the principal cities of the United States for the past week are: $3,481,839,063, increase of 28.8 per cent compared with the corresponding period last year.

Revenue Agent Wants Damages.
Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 10.—State Revenue Agent Alexander has employed George W. Jolly to bring suit against J. B. Aud and eighteen other taxpayers of Daviess county for damages, claiming $1,100, because they enjoined him May 16, 1904, from making sale, by direction of the state auditor, of about fifteen hundred pieces of property in this county for delinquent taxes. The revenue agent claims he was put to this much expense by these defendants, in advertising bills, legal expenses, etc., when they forestalled this sale. The injunction was dissolved by the court of appeals, and the revenue agent has now advertised another sale of the same property in Owensboro February 19, 1906.

Health
Means the ability to do a good day's work, without undue fatigue and to find life worth living. You cannot have indigestion or constipation without its upsetting the liver and polluting the blood. Such a condition may be best and quickest relieved by Herbine, the best liver regulator that the world has ever known. Mrs. D. W. Smith writes, April 3, '02: "I use Herbine and find it the best medicine for constipation and regulating the liver I ever used." 50c at Alvey & List and G. C. C. Kolb.

DIZZY?

Are you dizzy? Does your head swim? Do your eyes blur? Is your stomach sick? In women, these symptoms are often signs of disordered nervous system, or of liver or heart trouble, brought on by carelessness in regulating the menstrual functions. These functions are even more important to women than the bowel functions to either sex. Even if there is no stoppage, still, a gentle, cleansing, menstrual draught should be taken now and then—every doctor will tell you so. Otherwise the menstrual blood will decay inside you, and will be absorbed into your system, causing such pain and suffering as will make you lose all interest in life.

To cure yourself, take woman's best and safest remedy, menstrual cleanser, tonic and pain reliever, is the old, reliable, time-tested medicine, which, for over 70 years, has been a household word in America, viz:

COUNTY AND CITY SCHOOLS CO-OPERATE

Superintendents Will Work Together for Common Good.

Next Saturday $2,700, the Last Installment For County Teachers, Will Be Divided.

CITY SCHOOLS ARE CROWDED.

Today is the regular pay day for McCracken county public school teachers, but the money was delayed and will not be here before Saturday, the 17th.

County Superintendent S. J. Billington received word to this effect this week, and the fifth and last payment of the term will be made next Saturday. The total check for this county will amount to $2,700. All teachers have been instructed to come in Saturday to receive their checks.

Supt. Billington is a man of many progressive ideas, and is working in conjunction with the city school teachers in improving the county schools. Heretofore the two schools, city and county, have been separate and distinct, with little co-operation, but it is the intent of the county and city superintendents to bring them closer together, as it will be beneficial to both.

The county schools are not as finished as the city schools, and it is the idea of the two superintendents to arrange so the work will come closer together. This will be a hard and long pull, but they expect to start the move next summer when the schools open again.

City Schools Getting Crowded.

The second week of the second school term showed settled conditions in all schools, but some little inconvenience is being experienced in some of the buildings from congested pupils, several rooms being crowded to their capacity.

The rate of increase in attendance in the schools is rapidly becoming larger, and the fact that additional teachers will have to be added next year is apparent. This is true especially in the primary departments. The excellency attained by the public schools is being widely advertised, and the conspicuous absence of many private schools is another proof that the public schools are nearing such a standard of perfection.

Supt. Leib stated that the officials were thinking of many improvements for next year, but do not know exactly that they will be. The board cannot run the schools as they should be run on the money apportioned, but so far this has not materially interfered in the work.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system. Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh. All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Wants a New Road Bill.

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot has gone to Frankfort, Ky., in the interest of a bill authorizing a county to improve its roads by the same methods that may be employed by some cities—by ordering the improvement and requiring the adjacent property owner to pay a portion of the cost. In this way all roads in the county could soon be converted from dirt roads into gravel turnpikes, and it would not only be an advantage to the people but would also save money in the long run.

Nothing will relieve indigestion that is not a thorough digestant. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, and allows the stomach to rest—recuperate—grow strong again. A few doses of Kodol after meals will soon restore the stomach and digestive organs to a full performance of their functions naturally. Sold by Lang Bros.

The second alarm came while the companies were leaving the first alarm. A wash house in the rear of a house on Washington street was afire inside. Newspapers on the walls had become ignited. The blaze was extinguished with little loss.

FIRST FIND THE CAUSE

Half the work the blood has to do is to carry nourishment to the system. The other half is to carry waste matter to the kidneys, which expel it from the system. When the blood gets weak or sluggish, the first effect is an accumulation of waste matter. The danger of this waste matter is here explained.

HOW BLOOD AFFECTS HEALTH

Blood is our life force. Every particle of our body is built, rebuilt and sustained by blood.

More than this, every bit of waste in the body must be washed out through the kidneys by the blood. This red life flood is constantly bringing new life force and carrying away waste matter.

When the blood loses any of this waste, fails to get it out of the body, disease begins. If the poisonous waste accumulates at a joint or close beside a muscle, what we call Rheumatism or Neuralgia, gives its painful warning. When it stops at other points other diseases result—Heart Disease or Kidney Trouble or Catarrh.

All ill-health is caused by waste matter clogging the channels of the body.

There is only one way to get that out—the blood must carry it.

HOW LIFE PLANT HELPS THE BLOOD

When pain or weakness cries out that some of this waste—physicians call it uric acid—is clogging circulation and poisoning our blood—that is the beginning of disease.

What is to be done? The blood must be helped. Just as soap (which contains alkali) removes impurities from the skin by dissolving them—so alkaline introduced into the system dissolves uric salts so that the blood can carry them to the kidneys.

LIFE PLANT, a formula of herb remedies is a natural solvent of uric salts. It is not a patent medicine. It contains no narcotics to dull pain and enslave you to its use—no alcohol to stimulate you temporarily at the expense of your constitution.

Thousands of people have been cured by LIFE PLANT. We will be glad to send you copies of their letters. WRITE US today.

SYMPTOMS OF EXCESS URIC ACID

Darting pains, palpitation, shortness of breath, headaches, biliousness, poor digestion, dry skin, dark colored urine, sluggish brain, sleeplessness; and in women, menstrual disorders. These symptoms must not be neglected. They are the sure signals of disease.

If you have any of the above symptoms—certain warnings of serious illness—do not delay. Take LIFE PLANT. If you already have any disease following any of these symptoms—take LIFE PLANT at once. Be Healthy!

CHAPTER VII.

ONCE more in Valley Springs, Ann's old self returned, and the scenes through which she had passed became as unreal as the happenings of a dream, but her sense of injury deepened into dislike of Raymond and the life he represented. Therefore she took care not to see him as he was borne into Barnett's house. "He is nothing to me, and I must decline to be troubled by him further," she said as she was dressing to go out.

Mrs. Barnett, however, was waiting and when the carriage in which he lay came to the door hastened to take his hand in both of hers and make him welcome. "I'm glad you came, Rob. We are going to have you out in a few days. How do you feel?"

In his weak state he could only boyishly say: "Oh, I'm on the up grade! You and Don are mighty good to me."

Thereafter Raymond abandoned himself to the joy of traveling back to life along such ways of wanton luxury as he had never known. He permitted himself to be waited upon, even by Mrs. Barnett, without protest, and when Louis came stealing into the room in awe and love his heart went out to the boy as to a brother.

"Hello, younker!" he called. "You needn't walk so soft voiced. I'm worth a dozen dead men yet."

The boy's face shone. "I thought you were asleep. Can I do anything for you?"

"No; only come and sit down and talk to me. What have you been doing since you came back to the Springs?"

Louis took a seat. "Nothing of any consequence, except to make some drawings of the ranch. It's dull here. I want to go into the mountains."

"You're a wonderful youngster. Wait till I'm able to travel, and we'll go up into the high country together."

Louis clapped his hands. "Won't that be glorious? I'd rather do that than anything else in the world."

"How is your sister?" asked Raymond, with abrupt change of tone.

"She is well. She's always well. We just came in from a drive. That's the reason I wasn't here to help you. Did it hurt you going upstairs?"

"Not a bit. The boys handled me as tenderly as a side of pork. Let me see your drawings, will you?"

The boy's face glowed. "Well, you just wait." And he rushed away to get them.

Mrs. Barnett upon meeting Ann said, with deep feeling: "Rob's illness has transformed him. He said to me a few moments ago: 'If you can find the man who shot me, reward him. He has done me a great service. I am lost in a dream of luxury.' He asked after you with emotion and said he would like to thank you for your service to him."

Ann, listening intently, remained coldly impassive of face. "Mrs. Scribbins was the really efficient person. I have a horror of sick people, and as for wounds—She shuddered for lack of words.

Mrs. Barnett went on: "I like to do for him, he's so grateful and so obedient. He says just the right thing always. There must be good breeding back of the man, although he never mentions his family. There's some love affair to account for his being here. He's too handsome not to have had entanglements. Don't you think so?"

"He insisted not," replied Ann. "He begged me to consider that his life had been quite commonplace."

"I don't believe it. He couldn't be commonplace. He said to me just now, 'Sometimes a man must have the wash of the river of death to realize how futile he has allowed his life to become.' His gratitude toward you is pathetic."

Ann frowned. "It's worse; it's oppressive. I did so little, and that little was not done with a gracious spirit. I didn't enjoy it then nor in retrospect."

"You mustn't let him know that. His worship of you positively irradiates his face, and he's very handsome. He insists that you were heroic."

Ann grew a little petulant. "I wish you wouldn't try to make mountains out of molehills. It was a most unpleasant experience, and I wish to forget it, not to have it dinned in my ears forever. My going was folly, and my stay in that ghastly place was a torment. Please allow me to put it out of my memory."

Ann had a moment of bitter homesickness, a feeling she had never known before. This mad trip into the west with a reckless and supersensitive boy grew each moment more disastrous. At the moment she fairly hated her cousins and all the guests at their table and longed, with unspeakable hunger, for the roll of carriages on Fifth avenue and the glitter and tumult of Broadway. The stony, uninterested stare of her mother was better than this prying, this overstrained interest on the part of Jeannette.

As for Raymond, he had been momentarily interesting as a cowboy, and when he was lying at the brink of the grave he had assumed tragic value, but now that he was on the way to recovery he ceased to interest. "He is merely one of the thousands of other commonplace young eastern men who have tried their fortunes in the west and failed," she said. "Why should I be burdened with any further care of him?"

At this time the story of Raymond's shooting and in spite of Ann's protests put her in as the heroine, which reinfused her almost to the point of leaving the table. The "Ah's" and "Dear me's" and "By Jove's" volleying from the listeners were quite insupportable. One lady said, "Poor fellow!"

"Not at all," said Dr. Braide. "He was a lucky dog. I'd be shot any day to get such a nurse."

Jeannette saw the angry flush on Ann's face and hastily turned the conversation into less personal channels.

Thus every influence swept her toward a dislike of the wounded man's very name, and thereafter she ignored his presence in the house, his being in the world, as though he did not exist. She neither asked after his health nor replied to any report or question made by her brother concerning him.

Louis brought to Raymond one day a small lamp book in red leather, which he proffered with the air of giving a gem.

"What's this?" asked Raymond. "Your diary?"

"No; my father's. He was out here before I was born, when the Indians were here."

Raymond opened the volume with languid interest, but soon realized that he was looking into the past through the eyes of a poet. Part of it was written in ink very legibly, but in a fine running hand, while other of the pages were hastily scribbled in pencil and not to be easily deciphered. Plainly the record had been made under great disadvantages and in the field. The ink was of various colors, some watery blue, some dusty black.

Louis opened the book at the front, wherein the picture of a slender, smiling, handsome young fellow in sombrero and hunting clothes had been pasted.

"He enjoyed his new hat, didn't he?" said Raymond, to whom the essential incongruity of the refined face and border ruffian toggery first appealed.

"You're the maker of your father?" he added, looking keenly at the boy. "He don't look much older in this picture, taken at Sylvanite. Well, Sylvanite was a wild town in those days. Is there much about it in the book?"

"Ten pages," he wrote a page of the script every day, but I don't care so much for that—these stage rides, and the big canyons, and crossing the rivers, and the Indians—these are what interest me."

Raymond became profoundly interested in this book. There was an appeal in the closing entry which touched him profoundly. The entry was headed "The Last View" and closed with these words: "I love my home and my friends in the east, but this primeval world has laid its spell upon me. I shall come again next year."

"Did he come again?" asked Raymond.

"No," answered Louis sadly. And it was soon evident to Raymond that the lad knew very little of his father beyond the message in the worn little book.

"Leave this with me, Louis. I want to read it all," he said. And the boy was glad of this interest.

Mrs. Barnett came in later and asked, "What are you reading?"

"It is a journal kept by Louis's father. Did you know him?"

"Oh, very well! He was my favorite uncle."

"Tell me of him. Who was he—how did he come to make this trip?"

Mrs. Barnett took a comfortable seat. "I don't know where Uncle Phil got his streak of sentiment. He was one of six brothers, all successful business men; keen, practical—you know the kind. But Phil—well, he was the odd sheep—he always seemed a boy old sheep—he worked in the bank, but his mind was on other things. I don't remember how they came to send him out here, but I can recall perfectly the effect he had on me when talking of his trip. He glorified this country. He saw the mountains as the old time landscape artists pictured them. When I first came I wept with disappointment, the range seemed so prosaic by contrast. He talked of nothing else for a year. Then he married and gradually ceased referring to his experiences."

"He never came again, Louis tells me."

"No. His wife was not the kind of girl to go west. I don't want to say anything severe about Alicia, but she made Phil very unhappy. When Ann was born Phil wanted to call her Hesper, in memory of his trip to the west, but Alicia cried out against it. It was an odd name, but it was pretty, and there was no reason why the father shouldn't have had his wish, but that was her way. She was cold and selfish even in her honeymoon. I never saw such a girl. Phil went with her to every fashionable resort in Europe, but she never let him go. He used to get up into the Adirondacks now and then, I remember, but only for a day or two. Oh, how exacting she was! After Louis was born she grew worse. She became morbid. I never could see that she had a particle of maternal affection. If Ann isn't like her it is because Phil's blood is in her veins. Louis is exactly as Phil was, as I recall him when I saw him first."

"You say the father called her Hesper?"

"You say the father called her Hesper?" pursued Raymond, acutely interested in all that concerned Ann.

Inauguration Week

By TROY ALLISON

Pennsylvania avenue was gay with flying flags and bunting. The crowd on the pavements, kept from overflowing the curbstone by the force of mounted police, was larger than the city had seen for years.

On the corner of Twelfth and the avenue the people who had been unable to decide whether they preferred seeing the man of the hour start from the White House or arrive at the capitol had finally formed a congested mob that concluded to let well enough alone and save the wear and tear of further progress.

A group of cowboys in their best western finery joked a crowd of girls that had turned out to see the procession. Two Indians, decorated with every specimen of button, badge and feather, stood with stolid patience just where the crowd was thickest.

A man in a light overcoat towered head and shoulders above the rest. A newsboy reached up with a variegated cane and tilted his derby rakishly to one side. "Wish I was up in the clouds with you, mister," he grinned. "I could review this procession to better advantage."

"I might as well be stone blind," came a plaintive voice whose owner's diminutive stature was wedged in between the Indians and the man with the light coat, "and I reckon I'd be rather more comfortable if I were stone dead at the same time."

Sedley looked down from his height of six feet three with a smile at the humor of the situation. "It's too bad," he said pityingly. "Push back this way a little—I can elbow the crowd at the side a bit—might be dangerous to push forward into those Indians—don't think I ever saw any more decorated specimens—they may have tomahawks in every pocket for all of you."

The girl laughed and moved toward him. "I don't mind them." She showed a row of white teeth and black eyes sparkling with excitement. "I'm so dark and small and black haired!"

THE GIRL SNATCHED A DEER HAT AND WAVED IT ENTHUSIASTICALLY.

that that newsboy with the cane asked me if I was the squaw that belonged to the Indian gentleman!"

Sedley had already recognized her voice as belonging to a daughter of the far south, and when she turned her face toward him her Creole ancestry was a certainty.

"I have lost my crowd. I tried to take a little walk by myself before it was time to start for the grand stand," she said, with frank friendliness, "and I have lost my hotel. I don't know where anything on earth is except just me." Her sentence ended with a little gasp as the crowd made a sudden impulse forward.

"And I'm afraid among your other losses you are going to lose your view of the president," said Sedley, trying to keep the crowd from jostling her. "How much can you see from down there?"

"Oh, I can't see anything but two buckskin jackets. They may be very nice in the buckskin line, but I want to see the president. I never saw a real live president in my life," dolefully.

"He's almost here," he said. "I wonder if—or you would let me—lift you up so you could see him?" he suggested, with a touch of good natured shyness.

"Oh, would you?" she exclaimed, with the volume of gratitude of one who has been granted a heart's desire. "I weigh a hundred and one. Do you think you could hold me till he passed?" anxiously.

"Just try me," he said, smiling as he lifted her until she beamed happily over the two grained heads in front of them.

The president in acknowledging the cheers that burst forth gave a purely personal smile of amusement and good will to a girl whose sparkling face rose clear above the mass and who in her excitement snatched a derby hat and waved it enthusiastically.

"Did you see him smile at me?" she asked breathlessly, when her feet touched the pavement.

"I don't see how he could help it," Sedley took her arm and drew her to one side, as the people hurried on toward the capitol. "If you will give me some information on the subject, I will see if I can help you find that lost hotel."

"You are just as good as can be," she said gratefully. "It's the Willard, and I know papa is frantic about me by this time."

"The Willard? That's easy." And Sedley's conscience justified the "around your elbow" to get your thumb" route which he took to the hotel, by the theory that it was easier to walk six blocks through practically empty streets than to walk two against a surging mob.

When they reached the hotel, he took his leave reluctantly. "I wonder if it would be rude to say I would like to meet you again?" he asked.

"I don't think it would—very." There was amusement in her eyes. "Papa would probably like to thank you for finding this lost hotel."

When she told him her name and her native state, Sedley's face brightened visibly. "Do you happen to know the congressman from the Second district?" he asked eagerly.

"Know him? He read law in papa's office," she said.

The congressman from that Second district was interrupted at his dinner that night by a young giant who threatened to break every bone in his body if he did not take him around to be introduced to Judge Gaillard and his daughter.

The congressman helped himself to the macaroni and smiled broadly.

"All right, Sedley, my boy; I'll arrange it. That's the belle of our state. I don't wonder that you show symptoms of having it in the very worst form."

One afternoon a week later Sedley guided Norville Gaillard through the corridors of the Congressional library, wearing an expression that would have affirmed the opinion that there was no occupation or pursuit ever followed by man that was one-half as pleasant as guiding sightseers over Washington.

While she read the old English inscriptions he wondered if his native Boston ever saw a hat that compared with the girl's little red turban, or if Boston ever saw anything so perfect as the glowing face set off by her chinchilla furs.

"Was that turban made from a bird of paradise?" he asked musically.

"Bird of paradise?" She left the old English inscriptions and turned toward him laughing. "Your study of ornithology has been woefully neglected. I think we had better take in the zoo next. I believe you would find it came nearer being the breast of a flamingo. We must hurry back to the hotel in time to lunch with papa. He says he has scarcely seen me for the last week. But you are a wonderfully clever guide," she added approvingly.

"Let's sit here just a minute," he said persuasively. "It's terrible to think you are going home in three days"—dependently.

Norville laughed at his woeful face. "You must be a Yankee of deepest dye"—reproachfully—"to think going south is such a terrible ordeal. You ought to go see our south before you say things about it."

"May I really come?" he asked, and his voice made her lower her eyes and commence a study of the American Beauty she wore on her coat.

"We are a hospitable people," she said evasively, "and our house is very large."

He leaned forward earnestly, trying to see her eyes. "But I don't want to venture into your strange land unless there would be some one there who would be happy because of my coming"—pleadingly.

She gave him a glimpse of her eyes. "It would make me happy," she said softly.

"You dear little girl," he whispered, laying his palm covertly over the little gloved hand on the seat beside him.

Unimportant.

A Princeton man tells of a conversation that took place between the coach of a football eleven and one of the players. An important game was soon to be played, and the coach was of course most anxious that every player should be in the best physical condition. But to his great disgust one of the men upon whom a great deal depended if the great game was to be won seemed to be in "bad form."

Taking him aside, the coach had the following "heart to heart talk" with the recalcitrant: "See here, you're not looking so good. Muscles flabby and wind bad—awfully bad. What's the matter? Been drinking anything?"

"Not a drop."

"Then you must be smoking."

"Haven't touched a pipe, cigar or cigarette since the training began."

"Studying?"

"Well, yes—a little."

Whereupon the coach gave vent to a snort of disgust. "See here, you've got to stop that! Do you want to lose the game?"—Harper's Weekly.

A Short-hand Blunder.

One day a lawyer dictated a special writ of fieri facias to his shorthand clerk and, being in a hurry, rushed off to court with the transcript as soon as it was made without reading it. When it was presented the dignified judge glanced through it, looked at a certain part of it steadily and became convulsed with laughter. He then handed the paper back to the lawyer, stating that he was sorry he couldn't grant his petition.

"I think, please the court, that this is according to rule," persisted the attorney.

"Well, this court is unable to do anything for you," replied the judge. "Your request is unreasonable. Just take your petition and read it."

The lawyer did so and found that it requested the court to grant "special red fiery faces to its petitioners."

ABANDONS MUNICIPAL LIGHT.

Mayor McClellan Indicates Satisfaction With Bids Offered for Illumination of the Streets.

The New York Herald of February 6 says:

"Mayor McClellan yesterday indicated that no further steps would be taken by the board of estimates and apportionment under his administration toward the building of a municipal electric lighting plant.

"Municipal ownership and operation are to be considered," he said, "only when private interests fail to provide suitable service for a price within which the city could do the work itself. I am not certain that the lighting companies have reduced their figures for the next year to this point, but I understand they are much lower. I shall take no action until I am thoroughly informed on every point."

"Answers to questions indicated that the mayor has no thought of pressing to completion plans for the construction of a municipal light plant."
